
Law of the Internet

Fourth Edition

by George B. Delta and Jeffrey H. Matsuura

Law of the Internet offers a comprehensive overview of the Internet, lucid discussion of its current applications, and thoughtful analysis of recent trends. The authors identify the legal issues that arise from the use of the Internet and its applications, provide incisive analysis of how existing law applies, and alert readers to potential issues and areas of concern likely to arise in the future.

Highlights of the Fourth Edition

The Fourth Edition covers important new developments in the fast-changing field of Internet law and adds significant new and revised material on a number of critical topics, including the following:

- Apple fights federal authorities on iPhone privacy. See § 3.01.
- FCC to enforce privacy requirement on ISPs. See § 3.01.
- Brazil temporarily jails Facebook executive in WhatsApp privacy dispute. See § 3.03.
- Internet of Things, a threat to privacy. See § 3.05.
- FOIA amendment adopts “presumption of openness.” See § 3.06, § 17.02.
- EU expands privacy protection but erodes privacy in response to terror attacks. See § 3.07.
- The European Union (EU) links privacy with competition law enforcement. See § 8.08.
- Consumer complaints over broadband rollout and network maintenance. See § 9.02.

- FCC enforces “Net neutrality” requirements. See § 9.02.
- Google Fiber program challenged. See § 9.02, § 8.06[A], § 8.07.
- China expands Internet oversight. See § 9.04.
- Trans Pacific Partnership and other regional trade agreements complicate traditional IP trade arrangements. See § 10.04[B][1].
- Expansion of open access for research data and publications. See § 10.05, § 6.03.
- German court facilitates music sampling. See § 11.05.
- Litigation to assess scope of export control oversight of 3D printing of weapons. See § 16.03[J].
- Impact of “Brexit” on UK role in global e-government initiatives. See § 17.01.

11/16

For questions concerning this shipment, billing, or other customer service matters, call our Customer Service Department at 1-800-234-1660.

For toll-free ordering, please call 1-800-638-8437.